≧ Fall Feelings in CPH ≦

Danish 'efterårsferie' - the old days “potato-holiday”: In mid-October 1899, the official potato school holiday was introduced. As potato harvesting took place during the autumn, school children living in the Danish countryside were needed to help with picking the crop. Harvesting created a problem for the schools because schools found it highly impractical to always have children away from school. Farmer’s harvesting time could vary and this caused children to miss time off from school. Therefore, the solution was to established a one week (“week 42”) holiday which specifically gave school children the time outside of the class room to help with harvesting.

From the 1960’s this holiday became more of a ‘vacation’ for the families and today there is a lot of special cultural activities happening all over Denmark in this specific week, including the annual big CPH Cultural Night (14 October 2022 - Read more here). This year “week 42” will take place from Monday, 15 October - 24 October 2022.

Halloween decorations and events in Copenhagen: If Wikipedia can be trusted, the American version of Halloween only took off in Denmark in 2000 and the production of real pumpkins has raised, with nearly a million sold every year in Denmark.

American-style Halloween has become popular not just because it references a deep pagan tradition, but because getting ready for it gives the kids something to do during fall vacation (efterårsferie) in Denmark.

In Tivoli, the autumn season is kicked off with a specular Halloween decoration of the entire garden and including spooky surprises, wonderful food to taste and a very popular pumpkin-competitions and exhibition. Read more here about Halloween in Tivoli. The amusement park “Bakken” north of CPH will also for the first time have a special Halloween event in week 42 in 2022 – read more about “Bakken” here. Happy Halloween! 🎃
